XXIII EDITION

NON-FICTION SECTION

Project submission form

1. Title of the essay

2. Author of the text and school of origin

3. ABSTRACT: not more than 150 words

What is your elevator pitch? Present the content of your work in a short and concise way; Explain the path of conception followed, the suggestions that guided its elaboration, the interpretative key of the theme chosen by you and the reasons that determined it.

4. Storytelling: presentation of the essay in its internal articulations (max. 100 words)

Present the structure of your work, explain the path followed in its definition, justify the choices underlying its internal articulation.

5. Focus on the completed essay (max 400 words)

Assume that, after its drafting, your work will become the starting point for further investigation and research into a new and original aspect of Galilei's thought. What forms and directions might they take? Which, in your opinion, would be the most effective way to disseminate your literary work to a wider audience and, in particular, to motivate your peers to deepen the themes you propose?

6. Target audience (max. 100 words)

Who is your essay intended for? Have you thought about a publishing destination yet? To what extent could it arouse the interest of your audience? What stylistic and formal choices have you made to engage your reader?

7. References
